FAMILY HISTORY

Morrison, Long and Mason.

Preface.

7092733

It is always necessary for the author to give some reason as to why they write books, and what inspires them to write certain books. As a reason the author will give, first: That the Morrison, Long and Mason families may have some historical facts regarding their ancestors, and that this genealogy may be given to future generations to show the data of their past history, which, I believe is today called pedigrees. Second: as a matter of pastime. It has required 26 years to write this book. The writer, which I believe is usually called an author, became inspired to write this book in January, 1899. It was at this time while residing at Dixon, Illinois, that he married his wife and took her to his home in Somerset County, Pennsylvania to visit friends and relatives. It was at this time he learned that a family history had never been written, and it was at that time that he began to gather data and facts which is herein recorded.

When the author returned home from his honeymoon trip about February 15, 1899, he found it was necessary to move to a farm he had previously rented in Lee County, Illinois. By the time moving was over it was time to begin spring work or farming, and no time could be spared to complete the writing of the book. From that time to the present, January 1925, the author has been too busily engaged milking cows, swilling hogs and farming in general to finish the writing of the Family history. It was at this time the author passed through a seige of sickness which confined him to his home for several weeks, and in order to pass away the time he used this opportunity to finish the job.

To those who are personally acquainted with the author, remember he is not an educated man never having been a schoolmaster, and this accounts for the misspelled words, and the ungrammatical phrases to be found herein. The author wishes to take this opportunity to thank his many friends who assisted him in gathering the data and the historical facts as found herein recorded. Without the cooperation and help of these friends this family history would have been an impossibility. The author wishes to state that the facts recorded in this book are accurate and true to the best of his knowledge and belief. Perhaps some errors may be found, but it must be remembered that it would be quite impossible to gather this data from so many different sources, yet have it perfect.

And in closing, it is the wish and desire of the author that this family history may be read by the present generation and that the future generations may read it and that some one more competent may begin where I have left off and write the future data and facts and pass it on to future generations.

Respectfully yours,

Thomas M. Morrison
Thomas M. Morrison.

"It is pleasant sure to see one's name in print."
Byron.

Is your name Morrison? If so, it is something of which to be proud. Instead of being a common, ordinary, everyday, meaningless doggonomen, that name is very old and very distinguished. It is such that it would be an arduous task indeed for a person to live up to it, for according to tradition, you are of the Royal Blood of Norway.

ORIGIN OF THE FAMILY

The family of Morison or Morrison is very numerous in Scotland, and the name has been a fixed surname there and in the adjacent island of Lewis for probably a thousand years. It is an old name in the Counties of Lincoln, Hertfordshire, and Lancaster, England where persons of the name were knighted and received coats of arms several centuries ago. The family has spread and members may be found on every continent, but they are most numerous in England, Scotland, Ireland and America. However, it appears evident that all of the name sprang from the same stock and have a common origin. The place where the family originated is undoubtedly the Island of Lewis off the Western coast of Scotland, and its founder was probably of Norwegian descent. In connection with the origin of the family the following is submitted, in an article entitled, "A Description of the Lewis," by John Morrison, indweller there. This was presumably written between 1678 and 1688. The author says of the first and most inhabitants of this country, that there were three men of several races "viz" Mores, the son of Kennanus, whom the Irish historians call Makurich, whom they make to be a son of one of the Kings of Norway, some of whose posterity remain in this land today. All of the Morrisons in Scotland may challenge their descent from this man.

A tradition preserved in the branch of the family which settled in New Hampshire is to the same effect. This statement is from Robert Morrison of Northwood, New Hampshire, a former mayor of Portsmouth, New Hampshire, who received it in the early part of the nineteenth century from an aged relative. While giving him words of admonition this aged person said, "Maintain the honor and integrity of your family, for the Morrisons come from the best blood of Scotland. They are descended from the Royal Family." This evidence is adduced to show the ground there is for the belief in the consanguinity of the different branches of the family. The reader cannot fail to notice the striking similarity of these traditions coming down for two centuries through different channels. The branch of the family which settled in New Hampshire immigrated from Scotland to Ireland at the time of the siege of Derry, 1688, and from there to Nottingham, New Hampshire in 1727. We know of no intercourse between the Morrisons of New Hampshire and the Morrisons of Scotland after the immigration of the former in 1688. The traditions here and the traditions there were separate and independent. The streams, one on this side, of the Atlantic and one on that side, ran unmingled for more than two hundred years, and yet they retain in their essential parts the same current of tradition.

These traditions all point to the same direction and tend to show a common origin of the family, and the Island of Lewis as its common home.

First Morrisons in America.

Many members of the Morrison family have immigrated to America. Among the earlier arrivals were: Elizabeth Morrison, aged 12 who came in the ship, Planter, with the family of George Giddings from Hertfordshire, England in 1635

William Morrison, aged 23, embarked in the Peter Bonaventure of London bound for Barbadoes in 1635.

Robert Morrison embarked at Severne, England for Virginia, August 21, 1635. (Founders of New England, page 101.)

Previous to 1635 a Morrison was Governor of Virginia for one year. Prior to 1670 Richard Morrison was appointed to the office of the keeper of the castle of Point Comfort, Virginia. In the probate records of Rockingham County, New Hampshire is the record of the death of Robert Morrison, May 10, 1677.

A number of Morrisons served in the war of Independence. In Lineage book of the D. A. R. volume 20, page 278, it is said of James Morrison, "James Morrison was born in Donegal County, Ireland. He came to this country in 1776 and settled in Pennsylvania, and was actively engaged in the Revolutionary War, and all through the struggle of Independence." It may be mentioned that Andrew Carnegie's mother was a Morrison and as a memorial to her, he built and endowed the magnificent school in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania known as the Margaret Morrison school for women.

Other interesting facts.

The Morrison family of today is very numerous, for example, the New York City directory contains the names of 384 residents whose name is Morrison, the Chicago directory 489, the Philadelphia directory 302, and the Detroit directory 292. Towns and villages named Morrison are to be found in almost every state in the Union besides in Canada, Provinces of British Columbia, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Ontario, Quebec, and in the Argentine Republic in South America. On the island of Formosa off the coast of Asia is a mountain peak 13,000 feet in height called Mount Morrison.

The following genealogical record is the earliest data obtainable of the Morrison family.

Samuel Morrison, born at Mifflin P. O. Juniata County, Pennsylvania in the year 1761. Died February 10, 1812 aged 51 years.

Mary Uptigraff Morrison, his wife, born in New Jersey in year 1762, died February 21, 1842, aged 80 years. 4

It is not definitely known when they moved to Somerset County Pennsylvania, but the records show they purchased a large farm in Jefferson township, Somerset County Pennsylvania on which they resided for many years. Samuel Morrison built a large water power dam, later known as Schrock's dam, located on the Samuel Flick farm in Jefferson township Somerset County, Pennsylvania. Power was furnished from this dam to run a sawmill and a carding or wool mill.

Samuel Morrison and Mary Uptigraff Morrison were the parents of six sons, Joseph, William, John, Joshua, Samuel and James. It is not definitely known what nationality Mr. Morrison was, but the older Morrison families think he was a native of Wales in the British Islands. Nothing is known of the nationality of the Uptigraffs. Samuel Morrison and wife are buried in the Samuel's church yard about two miles southeast of Lavansville, Somerset County, Pennsylvania. After the death of Samuel Morrison his son John ran the saw mill and his sons Joseph and William ran the carding mill.

At a later date William Morrison built and operated a tan yard about one-half mile southwest of the power dam mentioned above. John, William and Joseph Morrison purchased the original homestead which they divided, each brother owning his own part. John Morrison lived on the north part, Joseph on the central part, later known as the Samuel Flick farm, and William resided on the south tract known as the Morrison tan yard. These farms are located about one and one-half miles east of Bakerville and south of the Cumberland and West Newton turnpike.

Joseph Morrison, son of Samuel and Mary Uptigraff Morrison, was born in Jefferson township, Somerset County, Pennsylvania, September 7, 1791. He died September 13, 1869, aged 78 years, six days. His wife, Sarah Tedrow, was born January 3, 1791, died October 9, 1856, aged 62 years, 9 months, and six days. Nothing is known of the nationality of Sarah Tedrow, but the records show they were both natives of Pennsylvania. They were united in marriage September 24, 1811. To this union nine children were born. Viz: Mary, Jane, Samuel, Jacob, Rebecca, Perry, Julian, Sarah and Ann. The above named children were all born in Pennsylvania except the youngest, Ann. Joseph Morrison left Pennsylvania, April, 1838 and arrived October of the same year at Trenton, Iowa. They were forced to stop at Shadé, Athens County, Ohio for some months, the journey being undertaken by boat. At Quincy, Iowa they had to unload and go over land to Hillsboro. There they stayed a few weeks until he found a suitable claim. He secured a claim of 160 acres and purchased other claims amounting to about 2000 acres. The ages of these children are as follows:

1. Mary, born	March 3,	1813
2. Jane "	November 25,	1814
3. Samuel "	December 2,	1816
4. Jacob "	March 6,	1819

Santa Rosa, California.
January 23, 1906.

To Thomas M. Morrison:

Dear Friend:

Yours received. I think you know much more than I do. I never knew that Grandfather Morrison, Samuel Morrison 1861, had six sons. My father, Joseph Morrison, and my mother died at Trenton, Iowa. Uncles John, William and James died in Somerset County, Pennsylvania. I wrote your father a few years ago asking him who of our cousins are still living. I lived in Iowa 26 years. Am now in California. Have been here 43 years. I have a son, Oscar Morrison in San Francisco. I have nine grandchildren and one great-grandson. I suppose that you hear from Trenton, Iowa that I have two sisters in Iowa. Perhaps I have lived longer than my ancestors. I am now 89 years and two months old. Never thought of living so long. I have been a member of the Christian Church for many years. My wife died two years ago. Always glad to hear from relatives.

Yours lovingly,

Sam Morrison.

(Samuel Morrison was the first postmaster at Trenton, Iowa.)

To this union one child was born, Claude. George Countryman was a veterinary scargant and died at the age of about 25 years. John Countryman was married to Maggie Coleman and resided on a farm south of Lavansville, Pennsylvania. Mary Countryman died when about 35 years old. To this union two children were born, Elizabeth and Daisy. After the death of Mr. Countryman the family moved to Odell, Iowa. In 1928 the family was living at Iowa City, Iowa.

(6) Ann Missouri Morrison daughter of John and Rachel Tedrow Morrison born March 19, 1839, died June 2, 1894; married to Joseph Cunningham (a brother to her sister's husband) December 11, 1866. Mr. Cunningham was veteran of the late civil war, having served in the Union Army. No children were born to this union. After the death of Mr. Cunningham Mrs. Cunningham's property located at Mount Pleasant, Pennsylvania was given to their nieces, Rachel and Bertha Cunningham.

(7) John Henry Morrison son of John and Rachel Tedrow Morrison, born August 24, 1842, died November 5, 1905 aged 63 years, 2 months and 11 days. Mr. Morrison inherited his father's farm located one and one-half miles east of Bakersville, Pennsylvania and south of the Cumberland and West Newton turnpike. He was born, raised and died on the same farm. He was married November 3, 1863 to Alice Ann Mason of Milford township, Somerset County, Pennsylvania. Alice Ann Mason, his wife, was born February 17, 1840, died December 25, 1910 aged 70 years, 10 months and 8 days. She was the daughter of Thomas and Rebecca Long Mason who resided three miles southeast of New Centerville, Somerset County, Pennsylvania. John Henry Morrison was a member of the Disciple Church commonly called the Winebrenarian church being organized by John Winebrenner, and remained a member of this church until his death. Mr. Morrison was also a member of the I.O.O.F. and the Royal Aicanum. In the latter order he carried and received $3000.00 life insurance. In politics Mr. Morrison was a Republican, but always supported the candidate he considered would make the best officer. In addition to following farming Mr. Morrison was a carpenter and cabinet maker, and, in fact, a jack of all trades, most of which he could well master. For many years he acted as undertaker of the community in which he lived having made most of the coffins he used in the business. During the winter months he would make sleds, furniture and cabinets. Much of the furniture used in his home was of his own make. He constructed on his farm one of the most powerful cider presses ever made and during the fall months made cider for the people of the community, his charge being one cent per gallon. During the spring months he conducted a maple sugar camp and used over 1400 keelers or vessels which was placed around the maple trees on the farm which he had tapped to catch the sap or sugar water.

During the latter part of his life he built what was at that time known as the largest barn in Jefferson township. He also built an addition to his house which he equipped with modern improvements. Mr. Morrison was a powerful man physically, having weighed over 200 pounds. He died from the effects of diabetes from which he suffered about two years. After the death of Mr. Morrison, his wife, Alice Ann, made her home with her daughter Sabina F. Prugh in Somerset, Pennsylvania. The Morrison homestead consisting of about 175 acres was purchased by Walter L. and Ward F., the oldest and the youngest sons of Mr. Morrison. They conducted the farm for several years, Ward F. residing on the farm. The farm was then purchased by John Flick who was raised on the adjoining farm. Mr. Flick still resides on the farm (1929).

Alice Ann Mason wife of John Henry Morrison was a very devoted Christian woman, being a member of the Lutheran church and a teacher of the primary class of the Bakersville Sunday School for many years. Many boys and girls who were her earliest pupils grew up in the community, married, had children, and their children received religious instruction from Mrs. Morrison. On account of Mrs. Morrison's large experience of raising and caring for a large family of children, she became a practical nurse and was in great demand as a nurse in time of sickness. The night was never too dark, the road too long or the weather too stormy or cold for her to go on a mission of mercy in case of sickness in the community. She made no charges and always considered her services an act of duty to her fellow beings. Mrs. Morrison survived three strokes of paralysis which left her a helpless invalid and remained an invalid for six years. At that time she contracted pneumonia and died in a few days. Her death occurred December 25, 1910 and was the saddest Christmas the Morrison family ever had. John Henry Morrison and Alice Ann Mason were the parents of nine children.
